

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

MARKET SUMMARY

US equity markets started September at near-peak levels in a seasonally weak September, but saw a significant correction in the middle of the month. The soft-landing narrative held at the beginning of the month as the inflation was lower than expected. Investors waited for the Fed rate decision with more attention than usual, and a 25 bps cut in line with the soft-landing was more likely at the beginning of the month. This was supported by positive macro data such as low inflation and GDP growth forecasts. However, the labor market data showed a worrying sign, with employment growth slowing down, leading the Fed to finally cut rates by 50 basis points. The stock market reacted positively to the higher cut. The decision contributed to a temporary weakening of the dollar and a decline in short term yields. In Hungary, the gradual moderation in inflation was a positive, but the slowdown in Hungarian exports, especially of automotive products, further worsened the economic outlook. The forint exchange rate fluctuated, mainly due to uncertainties surrounding international interest rate decisions. Overall sentiment was strongly influenced by the international economic slowdown and fears of a recession in Europe. Easing energy prices helped the Hungarian economy, but industrial production and domestic consumption remained under pressure, limiting the growth potential of markets. The MNB cut its base rate by another 25 basis points to 6.50%.

The Fund was 100% allocated against the reference index by the end of September. Gold reached a new high in September, and in the current political and macroeconomic environment, we believe that this rise may continue with minor interruptions. Central banks in Europe and Asia are buying, but what's very important is that retail investors are still purchasing. When we start to see that the average person wants to buy gold, we will be more cautious. An important change in the Fund's structure is that starting in October, we will also be able to enter into futures contracts, which will make the management of the Fund more efficient.
