

VIG Opportunity Developed Markets Equity Investment Fund

A series HUF MONTHLY report - 2025 APRIL (made on: 04/30/2025)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to profit from the returns on global equity market investments through stock prices and dividend income. According to the intentions of the Fund Manager, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of shares of foreign companies issued through public offerings, but the Fund may also invest in shares issued by Hungarian companies. The proportion of shares that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. The Fund Manager has the option, at its own discretion, of hedging all or part of its foreign exchange risks using forward currency positions subject to observing the applicable legal requirements.

MARKET SUMMARY

The so called "Independence Day" on April 2nd was the biggest event of the month, when Donald Trump announced the long-awaited trade tariffs. The level of the tariffs was higher than the pessimistic scenarios, leading to a significant market sell off. Post-announcement tensions were eased by news of tariffs being postponed and negotiating initiatives by various countries, but the market remained depressed. Amid growing fears of a recession in the US economy, equity markets continued to show high volatility, with bond markets seeing the 10-year US Treasury yield rise to 4.6%. Recent quarterly reports, such as weak performances from UnitedHealth Group and Pepsi, warn that defensive sectors may also be struggling. Conversely, companies that get some sort of exemption from tariffs, such as Apple, may be able to outperform. As markets fall, several European investment institutions see the prospect of a recession as growing. Bond markets are expected to follow US trends and yields could rise on inflationary pressures. The defense and infrastructure sectors may continue to be more attractive as European economic stimulus measures could further boost the performance of these sectors. The Fund achieved a negative return in April and underperformed the benchmark index by a small margin. In April, the Fund was underweight against the benchmark index, which proved to be a good decision in the first half of the month, but unfortunately the underweight was not closed as we expected a further fall, which did not materialize. In the last third of the month, markets rose significantly and the Fund was brought back to the level of the benchmark index. At the beginning of the month, we continued to increase our exposure to Palantir, but when the share price reached an important technical level, we sold the entire position. We also made a profit on our Coinbase exposure before the quarterly report. We started to buy UnitedHealth shares again after the quarterly report caused the share price to fall more than 20%. We were also active in S&P500 futures, but these were mainly tactical positions.
