

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The purpose of the investment fund is to create an equity fund that can profit from long-term demographic changes and the related changes in consumer habits. The Fund aims to achieve long-term capital growth by investing in global companies that can benefit from the growth and aging of the population, the social and economic changes associated with a healthy lifestyle, urbanisation, the expansion of the emerging markets' middle class and the global economic trends stemming from these social changes, as well as the changing consumption habits driven by such demographic changes.

The Fund aims to achieve its objectives through equity-type instruments, primarily exchange-traded funds (ETFs), equities and open-ended public investment funds. The Fund takes a forward-looking approach and actively seeks companies in industries that can benefit from the long-term global demographic changes and related changes in consumer habits. Investments are made in companies that have strong fundamentals and are well positioned for long-term value creation and competitive advantage due to demographic and social changes. Trends related to demographic and social changes are long-term processes that go beyond normal economic cycles and are generally global and affect the entire world. Consequently, the Fund is not subject to any geographical restrictions. Since the Fund aims to profit from long-term growth and has significant exposure to the equity market, we recommend the Fund to investors who want to invest in the longer term and have a relatively high willingness to take risk.

MARKET SUMMARY

The so called "Independence Day" on April 2nd was the biggest event of the month, when Donald Trump announced the long-awaited trade tariffs. The level of the tariffs was higher than the pessimistic scenarios, leading to a significant market sell off. Post-announcement tensions were eased by news of tariffs being postponed and negotiating initiatives by various countries, but the market remained depressed. Amid growing fears of a recession in the US economy, equity markets continued to show high volatility, with bond markets seeing the 10-year US Treasury yield rise to 4.6%. Recent quarterly reports, such as weak performances from UnitedHealth Group and Pepsi, warn that defensive sectors may also be struggling. Conversely, companies that get some sort of exemption from tariffs, such as Apple, may be able to outperform. As markets fall, several European investment institutions see the prospect of a recession as growing. Bond markets are expected to follow US trends and yields could rise on inflationary pressures. The defense and infrastructure sectors may continue to be more attractive as European economic stimulus measures could further boost the performance of these sectors.

Donald Trump's tariff announcements in April caused movements of historic proportions and a rollercoaster ride. At the beginning of the month, the US President announced "reciprocal tariffs" on imports from US trading partners, whereby the US imposes a tariff of at least 10% on all its trading partners (and even higher tariffs on some sixty countries with large trade surpluses with the US). Trump's announcements caused a major upheaval in markets, with volatility soaring, equity and bond markets both falling, the dollar also falling, and a coordinated outflow of capital from US assets. Sentiment became very pessimistic and bond yields rose sharply, which may have reached the pain threshold of policymakers, so Trump suspended tariffs for 90 days against countries that had not applied retaliatory tariffs against the US, a measure that triggered a sharp rise. The S&P500 rallied 9.5%, the biggest one-day rise since the 2008 crisis. The Fund suffered a smaller fall than the market average at the beginning of the month thanks to its defensive exposure. However, the healthcare sector underperformed, with one of the big laggards being Novo Nordisk, where we felt that much of the bad news had already priced in, so we increased our weight in the portfolio in the middle of the month.
