

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The objective of the investment fund is to make the Polish bond market accessible to the investors, and to function as a relatively stable, medium-risk investment form bringing steady real yields to our Clients on middle term already, without having to tie down their money for a fixed period of time. The Fund mainly invests in Polish government securities issued in zloty, however, the portfolio manager has some room to complement the portfolio with other bond-type investments. Our goal is to achieve the highest yield while taking the lowest risk. To make investment decisions we use the tools of both fundamental and technical analysis, and we take into consideration the investor sentiment on the markets at all times. The portfolio manager seeks out potential investment opportunities based on the macro-economical expectations, the expected yield curve, the return expected on the curve and the market volatility, and selects investments that are considered to be safe and bring relatively high yields in exchange for the risks taken. The Fund strives for complete exchange risk coverage of foreign currency exposure for the target currency.

MARKET SUMMARY

Polish bonds performed weak in May: yields increased by 15 basis points on the 3-year maturity, by 28 basis points on the 5-year maturity, and by 15 basis points on the 10-year maturity. In early May, for the first time since autumn 2023, there was a change in the base rate. The Monetary Council implemented a 50 basis point rate cut, which was in line with market expectations, bringing the base rate to 5.25%. However, central bank governor Glapiński maintained a hawkish stance, stating that although inflation has decreased, the risks have not entirely disappeared—especially food prices and service inflation remain problematic. The first round of the Polish presidential election also took place in May, making the emphasis on central bank independence and policy strictness particularly important. Rafał Trzaskowski and Karol Nawrocki emerged as the leading candidates, but since neither secured an outright majority of 50%, a second round is scheduled for early June. Turning to economic data, preliminary figures show that inflation came in below market expectations of 4.3%, with prices rising by 4.1% year-on-year in May. This figure was significantly supported by falling global fuel prices. First -quarter GDP growth was strong, with the Polish economy expanding by 3.2% year-on-year, placing it among the top-performing EU countries. The Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell to 47.1 in May from 50.2 in April, once again dropping below the 50-point threshold. The decline is mainly attributed to a decrease in new orders and a slowdown in production. Industrial production in April grew by 1.2%. As for public finances, the government generated a deficit of 15,141 million PLN in the fourth month of the year, which brought the 12-month rolling budget deficit to 7.1% of GDP.

We kept our slight overweight position in Polish bonds, as we still expect some deterioration in global data, low oil prices should contain inflation risks, EU economy is slowing down, and at the same time Polish inflation will be closer to 4% in the next months, before resetting closer to 3% later this year, which should support Polish bonds. Elevated rate cut expectations and Polish presidential elections pose risks.
