

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

MARKET SUMMARY

The US stock markets were driven by conflicting events during the month. On the one hand, favorable corporate results (e.g. Apple, Nvidia) and a court ruling that partially invalidated punitive tariffs had a positive impact on the markets. The Nasdaq Composite index closed at new highs. On the other hand, the war between Israel and Iran and strong government communication aimed at reinstating tariffs were negative factors. The dollar weakened due to unfavorable US macro data, while bond yields declined overall. However, declining volatility had a positive effect, encouraging investors to increase their positions and resulting in record capital inflows into the United States. European capital markets were initially positively affected by the expected interest rate cut by the European Central Bank (ECB). Inflation data for May, particularly in Germany and France, were lower than expected, further reinforcing expectations of monetary easing. However, investor optimism was tempered by the continued weakness of the European manufacturing sector, particularly the decline in the automotive industry. The outlook for the economically significant German economy remains unfavorable, as indicated by continued factory closures and layoffs. On a positive note, however, the United Kingdom received further tariff exemptions from the United States on steel and aluminum products, supporting the price of British industrial stocks.

Investor sentiment improved worldwide in June, supported by moderating inflation expectations, more favorable consumer confidence, and declining market volatility. The international environment also had a positive impact on the domestic stock market: the BUX index rose by more than 2% in forint terms and performed even better in dollar terms. Among the best-performing stocks of the month were ANY Biztonsági Nyomda, Delta Technologies and Waberer's, which contributed to the index's growth with significant price increases. Although MOL and Richter, two of the leading blue chips, showed a slight decline, this was offset by smaller but dynamically strengthening stocks, resulting in a strong month overall for the BUX.
