

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

MARKET SUMMARY

Several factors supported the rise of the US stock market in July: the weakening of the dollar, algorithmic position building due to declining realized volatility, and the continued strong growth narrative in the technology sector, particularly among AI and semiconductor companies. The economic slowdown – for example, weak consumer spending and labor market data, as well as low private sector growth estimates by ADP Research, the global leader in employment performance measurement – did not cause panic.

The passage of the budget bill known as the "Big Beautiful Bill" provided a significant fiscal stimulus, which supported the stock market in the short term but raised concerns among bond market investors about the already controversial sustainability of public debt in the longer term. The yield on the 10-year US government bonds rose, along with the rest of the yield curve, reflecting uncertainty about the solvency of the government.

European markets showed similarly mixed performance. Favorable developments in trade negotiations supported stock indices, but bond markets saw a significant sell-off, mainly due to expectations of a slowdown in interest rate cuts by the European Central Bank. Inflation rose slightly but remains around the 2% target. The ECB's communication remained cautious, but Vice-President De Guindos warned of the dangers of the EUR/USD rate reaching 1.20, which somewhat halted the euro's appreciation.

The sub-fund achieved a positive return in July. The price of gold remained stable in the past month. Investors cannot decide which factor is more important: whether inflation will continue to decline or whether central banks will remain net buyers in the precious metals markets. We will most likely only get an answer to this question in the fall. Until then, the price of gold will continue to move within a narrow range.
