MARKET SUMMARY

Polish bonds performed well in July. The short end of the yield curve strengthened in particular, with 3-year yields falling by 12 basis points, while the long end mostly remained unchanged by the end of the month. At the early July rate-setting meeting, the central bank surprised the market by cutting the key interest rate by 25 basis points, bringing it to the current level of 5%. The decision was unexpected due to the previously hawkish tone, but central bank governor Glapiński emphasized that the 25 basis point cut was justified by slowing wage growth, weaker economic data, and lower inflation. Moving on with economic data, according to preliminary figures, inflation in July came in above market expectations of 2.8%, with prices rising by 3.1% year-on-year. The figure was largely supported by falling fuel prices and the high base effect from the previous year. The Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) rose to 45.9 in July from 44.8 in the previous month. However, the indicator remains below the critical threshold of 50, mainly due to declining new orders and a slowdown in production. Industrial production fell by 0.1% in the sixth month of the year. As for public finances, the government recorded a deficit of PLN 11,402.7 million in the sixth month of the year, bringing the 12-month rolling budget deficit to 7% of GDP.
