

VIG Emerging Market ESG Equity Investment Fund

C series CZK MONTHLY report - 2025 OCTOBER (made on: 10/31/2025)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the Fund is to share in the performance of companies benefiting from the growth of developing economies, through share price increases or dividend payments of listed companies, either directly (through investments in individual stocks) or indirectly (through ETFs or mutual Funds), while taking environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria into account. The Fund does not directly invest in shares of Chinese companies within the emerging market universe. The geographical distribution is partly determined by the MSCI Emerging Markets Ex China Index, in which, besides a significant Asian (ex China) focus, European and Latin American companies are also heavily represented, and partly by the MSCI World with Emerging Markets (EM) Exposure Index, in which American and European companies represent the greatest weight. The use of stock and index futures is permitted in order to hedge and effectively build the Fund's portfolio. In selecting the stocks, the Fund pays special attention to the ESG compliance of individual companies; therefore, besides analysing financial factors, portfolio managers also consider environmental, social and governance factors in the investment decision process. The Fund Manager seeks to build a portfolio in which the positive ESG characteristics of companies prevail, i.e. companies with high ESG scores are overrepresented in the portfolio as compared to companies with low ESG scores.

The environmental criterion covers the elements where a business interacts with the environment. This includes, for example, the energy usage, waste management, and emission of pollutants of corporations, as well as the preservation of natural resources. Social criteria include all relations of a corporation with external partners, customers and internal employees. Corporate governance criteria include the legal conditions affecting the reliable operation of a corporation.

Due to the strategy of the Fund, it may also invest in assets denominated in foreign currency. The Fund may hedge some or all of its foreign currency risk using forward currency positions against the target currency, i.e. the settlement currency of the benchmark (USD). The Fund Manager has a discretionary right to reduce the foreign currency risk of positions denominated in a currency other than the target currency, depending on market developments, by entering into hedge transactions. In addition, the use of equity and index futures is permitted in order to effectively build the Fund's portfolio. The Fund records its assets in Hungarian forint (HUF).

MARKET SUMMARY

In October, US capital markets continued to ride the AI wave, while the Fed's expected final interest rate cut this year and the end of quantitative tightening pumped further liquidity into the system. In addition to the dominance of the technology sector, the minor trade truce reached at the Trump-Xi meeting—a reduction in tariffs from 57% to 47% and a one-year easing of rare earth exports—came as a positive surprise, strengthening the dollar and growth prospects. At the same time, the threat of a government shutdown, record data center investments, and Fed Chairman Jerome Powell's caution regarding the December cut dampened the performance of traditional sectors. Bond yields moderated only slightly at longer maturities, while the short end saw a noticeable repricing of the interest rate curve. Europe remained in the grip of political and economic uncertainty: the initial optimism surrounding the formation of the French government proved short-lived, with banking sector stocks falling particularly sharply. Inflation rose slightly in September, but the ECB's decision to keep its key interest rate unchanged raised hopes of easing. Positive signs include a surge in car sales (especially hybrids imported from China) and stable unemployment. On the other hand, weak German industrial production and high energy prices linked to sanctions against Russia continue to put pressure on the continent's economy.

Most emerging stock markets closed October on a strong note. Asian stock indices outside China drove aggregate global emerging market indices. The star of the month was the South Korean stock index with a double-digit increase, but the Taiwanese and Indian indices also recorded growth of around 5% in dollar terms. The Latin American region achieved a positive zero performance, similar to the South African market, which was negatively affected by the surge in gold price volatility. The Central European aggregate index also kept pace with the developing Asian region, with the CETOP index rising by nearly 5% in dollar terms. Contrary to historical statistics, which show that stock markets tend to close October with weak or corrective results, investor sentiment was characterized by strong optimism this time around. Geopolitical risks remained moderate, with no significant escalation. The two major parties to the trade war, China and the US, also struck a more conciliatory tone. The corporate earnings season was also favorable, with most leading developed market companies meeting analysts' expectations in terms of revenue and earnings. Expectations regarding the US Federal Reserve's interest rate reduction policy also supported the weak dollar story and thus the rise of emerging markets, so overall, the Fund closed October with a strong performance.
