

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the fund is to achieve a substantial yield for investors by taking high risks and making active use of derivative positions. The Fund applies special investment strategies used by hedge funds to establish its strategy. The fund is willing to buy or sell all available investment instruments - domestic and foreign bonds (treasury bonds, discounted treasury bills, bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary, as well as low-risk bank and corporate bonds expected to bring higher yields than the state securities) Equities and other securities, indices and currencies - provided it sees the opportunity to make substantial gains - up to the maximum limit allowed by the law, which allows double leverage for the Fund. In its investment decisionmaking mechanism, the Fund considers fundamental pricing, technical and behavioral psychological factors To ensure liquidity the Fund aims to hold government securities issued by the State Debt Management Centre (ÁKK) on behalf of the State of Hungary.

MARKET SUMMARY

The US stock markets showed restraint in December. Although lower inflation data in November initially sparked widespread buying, the Fed's cautious communication quickly dampened enthusiasm. Weak economic data did not support the expectation of a January interest rate cut. If disinflation continues, easing may occur, but it is not expected to happen quickly. Corporate reports are mixed. Sports equipment manufacturers have suffered from weakness in China, while logistics companies have benefited from cost-cutting measures. However, housing market builders continue to face challenges. As Christmas approached, small-cap stocks once again outperformed large-caps, with the Russell 2000 index significantly outperforming the S&P 500 in December. Bond yields have remained stable, and core inflation data may confirm the disinflationary trend. Investors now view AI repricing as the greatest risk for next year, while fierce competition among major companies continues. The eurozone showed signs of stagnation in December, with weak growth and stable inflation. The EU's Ukrainian financing package, implemented through joint borrowing, could bring short-term stability to the neighboring conflict. Bond yields are stable, and the euro is holding its own against the dollar. Markets are cautious. Services are keeping the economy alive while manufacturing is in recession. Analysts see potential in the relatively cheap banking sector for next year.

The Fund increased its value in the last month of the year, thanks to favorable stock market, gold, and indirect real estate investments. During the month, we further increased our equity weighting, mainly by purchasing regional equities. We expect further good, balanced returns from certain CEE equities, as their current pricing (P/E) is around the long-term average. At the beginning of the year, we can expect a favorable market environment for risky assets.
