

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the Fund is to increase the euro savings held in the Fund, while assuming low interest-rate and credit risk. The Fund mainly buys short-term, euro-denominated bonds of investment-grade issuers, and aims to generate a return for investors through interest income and price gains on them. The Fund Manager invests the savings held in the Fund in short-term bonds denominated in euros. The Fund Manager assumes a low interest-rate risk; the modified duration of the portfolio is more than 6 months, but may not be higher than 2.5 years. The Fund also follows a cautious strategy in terms of assuming credit risk, investing a maximum of just 10% of its assets in bonds of non-investment grade or non-credit rated issuers. The Fund primarily invests in developed-market government securities, but this can also be supplemented by credit-institution, corporate and/or municipal bonds, as well as by term deposits and repo transactions. The Fund can also invest a small part of its portfolio in emerging markets. In addition, the Fund may invest in collective investment forms, and can fine-tune the design of its portfolio through the use of derivatives (stock-exchange and OTC transactions). The Fund invests exclusively in securities denominated in euros, and may hold currency assets in bank deposits or bank accounts only for the purpose of liquidity management and currency hedging. It is not possible to make individual investor decisions in the Fund.

No individual investor's decisions can be made in the Fund.

MARKET SUMMARY

The US stock markets showed restraint in December. Although lower inflation data in November initially sparked widespread buying, the Fed's cautious communication quickly dampened enthusiasm. Weak economic data did not support the expectation of a January interest rate cut. If disinflation continues, easing may occur, but it is not expected to happen quickly. Corporate reports are mixed. Sports equipment manufacturers have suffered from weakness in China, while logistics companies have benefited from cost-cutting measures. However, home builders continue to face challenges. As Christmas approached, small-cap stocks once again outperformed large-caps, with the Russell 2000 index significantly outperforming the S&P 500 in December. Bond yields have remained stable, and core inflation data may confirm the disinflationary trend. Investors now view AI repricing as the greatest risk for next year, while fierce competition among major companies continues. The eurozone showed signs of stagnation in December, with weak growth and stable inflation. The EU's Ukrainian financing package, implemented through joint borrowing, could bring short-term stability to the neighboring conflict. Bond yields are stable, and the euro is holding its own against the dollar. Markets are cautious. Services are keeping the economy alive while manufacturing is in recession. Analysts see opportunities in the relatively cheap banking sector for next year.

In December, the Federal Reserve decided not only to cut the base interest rate, but also to purchase short-term bonds. This led to a decline in yields on shorter-maturity bonds, while longer-maturity bond yields rose slightly, causing the yield curve to steepen. Eurozone yields moved in a similar direction in December, with the final month of the year largely characterized by an increase in yield curve steepness. Markets do not currently expect further interest rate cuts from the European Central Bank in 2026, despite weak growth conditions. In terms of portfolio composition, the fund continues to hold an overweight position relative to the benchmark index, with overweight exposure to French, Italian, and supranational bond markets.
