

VIG Developed Markets Government Bond Investment Fund

I series HUF MONTHLY report - 2026 JANUARY (made on: 01/31/2026)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The objective of the Fund is to create a highly defensive investment portfolio for its Investors, which typically invests in developed-market government bonds and related exchange-traded derivatives. According to the intentions of the Fund Manager, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of bonds issued by foreign states and foreign companies through public offerings. With regard to foreign securities, the Fund only purchases publicly traded securities listed on a foreign stock exchange. It keeps the planned share of non-investment grade securities low. The proportion of bonds that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. In order to ensure liquidity, the Fund may purchase Hungarian government securities (primarily discount treasury bills) and MNB bonds. The Fund Manager has the option, at its own discretion, of hedging all or part of its foreign exchange risks using forward currency positions subject to observing the applicable legal requirements.

MARKET SUMMARY

In January, the U.S. markets were characterized by duality: while the AI-driven rally in the technology sector pushed indices to new highs, monetary policy and geopolitical risks called for caution. As expected, the Fed did not cut interest rates, and the market is anticipating one or two 25-basis-point cuts this year. The flattening of the yield curve reflects the disappearance of expectations for short-term interest rate cuts. Stock market sentiment is also bolstered by the relative strength of small-cap companies.

Donald Trump's aggressive foreign policy dominates the narrative of global markets. The possible acquisition and strategic armament of Greenland, as well as the tough stance against Mexico and Colombia, are causing uncertainty in international trade. Due to the surge in energy demand from data centers, some analysts are warning of the inflationary impact of rising electricity prices.

The European economic outlook remains subdued. Although German PMI data was weak at the end of the year, the manufacturing index was better than expected in January. Eurozone inflation has reached or approached the 2% target, reducing the need for further monetary tightening and enabling the ECB to continue its cycle of interest rate cuts. However, most markets do not expect rapid movement but rather stability or very cautious easing in 2026.

At the end of January, Donald Trump nominated Kevin Warsh as the next Chair of the Federal Reserve, whose mandate could take effect from May this year. Warsh has previously taken a hawkish stance regarding the central bank's balance sheet, meaning he opposed further bond purchases. Following the news of the nomination, the weakening trend of the U.S. dollar came to a halt, while U.S. government bond yields rose by 5– 10 basis points by the end of January. Euro area yield levels changed little over the past month.

In terms of portfolio composition, we shifted the fund's exposure toward the longer maturities of Hungarian and Romanian euro-denominated bonds due to their meaningful yield spreads. The fund continues to maintain an underweight position in the U.S. dollar relative to the benchmark.
