

VIG Emerging Market ESG Equity Investment Fund

C series CZK MONTHLY report - 2026 FEBRUARY (made on: 02/28/2026)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The aim of the Fund is to share in the performance of companies benefiting from the growth of developing economies, through share price increases or dividend payments of listed companies, either directly (through investments in individual stocks) or indirectly (through ETFs or mutual Funds), while taking environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria into account. The Fund does not directly invest in shares of Chinese companies within the emerging market universe. The geographical distribution is partly determined by the MSCI Emerging Markets Ex China Index, in which, besides a significant Asian (ex China) focus, European and Latin American companies are also heavily represented, and partly by the MSCI World with Emerging Markets (EM) Exposure Index, in which American and European companies represent the greatest weight. The use of stock and index futures is permitted in order to hedge and effectively build the Fund's portfolio. In selecting the stocks, the Fund pays special attention to the ESG compliance of individual companies; therefore, besides analysing financial factors, portfolio managers also consider environmental, social and governance factors in the investment decision process. The Fund Manager seeks to build a portfolio in which the positive ESG characteristics of companies prevail, i.e. companies with high ESG scores are overrepresented in the portfolio as compared to companies with low ESG scores.

The environmental criterion covers the elements where a business interacts with the environment. This includes, for example, the energy usage, waste management, and emission of pollutants of corporations, as well as the preservation of natural resources. Social criteria include all relations of a corporation with external partners, customers and internal employees. Corporate governance criteria include the legal conditions affecting the reliable operation of a corporation.

Due to the strategy of the Fund, it may also invest in assets denominated in foreign currency. The Fund may hedge some or all of its foreign currency risk using forward currency positions against the target currency, i.e. the settlement currency of the benchmark (USD). The Fund Manager has a discretionary right to reduce the foreign currency risk of positions denominated in a currency other than the target currency, depending on market developments, by entering into hedge transactions. In addition, the use of equity and index futures is permitted in order to effectively build the Fund's portfolio. The Fund records its assets in Hungarian forint (HUF).

MARKET SUMMARY

In February, most emerging markets continued their strong upward trend from the beginning of the year. Led by the Asian technology sector, the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (excluding China) rose by nearly 10% in US dollar terms. Shares in the two largest companies on the South Korean stock exchange, Samsung and SK Hynix, soared, causing the MSCI South Korean index to rally by more than 20%. The Taiwanese and South African stock market indices also closed the month with double-digit gains. The optimistic stock market sentiment in South Africa was also helped by the rise in the price of gold. The precious metal rebounded from its local low of the previous month and rose by more than 20%. This time, Latin America and Central Europe performed weaker, but the Indian stock index was also unable to break away from its closing value at the end of January. During the month, optimistic investor sentiment was fueled by macroeconomic data reinforcing the positive outlook for the global economy, hopes for a cycle of interest rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve, and no escalation in geopolitical risks. However, in the last days of the month, the likelihood of US intervention in the Middle East increased. Investor optimism weakened in parallel with the growing possibility of conflict. The burst of optimism that characterized the entire month moderated somewhat, slowing the rise, but there was no significant reversal in stock market indices. Most emerging markets closed February with good performance, and the forint also ended trading with a slight strengthening, which has a negative impact on the fund's exchange rate. Developed stock market indices performed moderately, ending trading at around their previous month's closing values in dollar terms.
