PLN-RP series MONTHLY report - 2026 FEBRUARY (made on: 02/28/2026)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to share in the returns of the Polish stock market, and to profit from Polish economic growth through stock prices and dividend income. In accordance with the risk characteristics of equity investments, the Fund qualifies as a high-risk investment. According to the Fund Manager's intentions, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of the shares of foreign companies issued through public offerings. The primary investment targets are the securities, traded on the stock exchange or about to be listed on the stock exchange, of companies that operate in Poland or that derive a significant portion of their revenues from Poland, or whose shares are listed on the Warsaw Stock Exchange. The Fund may also invest in equities of other Central and Eastern European companies (Austria, Czech Republic, Hungary, Russia, Romania and Turkey). When developing the portfolio, the shares determine the nature of the Fund, and thus the proportion of shares that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. The Fund holds more than 30% of its assets in currencies other than the local currency (HUF).

MARKET SUMMARY

In February, the S&P 500 index declined slightly, while the VIX (the volatility index) remained at a consistently high level, indicating a strong sector rotation within the index. Nvidia's quarterly revenue exceeded expectations, but the subdued market reaction suggests that the positive surprise was already priced in. In terms of monetary policy, Kevin Warsh's nomination as Fed chair fundamentally rewrote interest rate expectations, shifting market attention from the short-term interest rate path to the possible reduction of the central bank's $6.6 trillion balance sheet. Futures markets are currently pricing in two cuts for 2026, with the first move expected to be postponed until June-July. The yield curve has stabilized at around 4.1% on 10-year bonds. On the geopolitical front, the resumption of US-Iran nuclear talks, Iran's 15-day ultimatum, and the concentration of forces in the Middle East have pushed up oil prices. European stock markets significantly outperformed the US, fueled by favorable valuations, a strong earnings season, and political commitment to increase defense spending. The ECB is expected to continue its easing cycle, but news of ECB President Lagarde's possible early departure raises some uncertainty about the continuity of institutional communication.

In February, investor sentiment on international capital markets was primarily shaped by trade policy uncertainties and monetary outlooks, while caution regarding investments related to artificial intelligence resulted in moderate volatility. Market performance in Asia was mixed, with new highs reached in some places, while Europe was characterized by a search for direction. Overall, international stock markets rose during the month, outperforming the Central European region, where only the Romanian and Polish markets showed relative strength. The region's overall underperformance can be explained by both the weaker performance of the banking sector and the halt in the weakening of the dollar. The Polish stock market achieved a 1% return in forint terms, significantly outperforming the regional CETOP index's -1.14% performance. Within the index, Orange Polska, Budimex and PGE supported the market with their share price increases, while CD Projekt, Modivo (formerly CCC) and Kruk underperformed.
