

VIG Poland Large Cap Equity Fund

HUF-RP series MONTHLY report - 2026 APRIL (made on: 04/30/2026)
HUF

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to share in the returns of the Polish stock market, and to profit from Polish economic growth through stock prices and dividend income. In accordance with the risk characteristics of equity investments, the Fund qualifies as a high-risk investment. According to the Fund Manager's intentions, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of the shares of foreign companies issued through public offerings. The primary investment targets are the securities, traded on the stock exchange or about to be listed on the stock exchange, of companies that operate in Poland or that derive a significant portion of their revenues from Poland, or whose shares are listed on the Warsaw Stock Exchange. The Fund may also invest in equities of other Central and Eastern European companies (Austria, Czech Republic, Hungary, Russia, Romania and Turkey). When developing the portfolio, the shares determine the nature of the Fund, and thus the proportion of shares that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. The Fund holds more than 30% of its assets in currencies other than the local currency (HUF).

MARKET SUMMARY

April was overshadowed by the blockade of the Strait of Hormuz: the leading index of the New York Stock Exchange, the S&P 500, started the month at the yearly low, then rose to a record high on news of a US-Iran ceasefire, then faltered as peace talks stalled. The index finally closed up at the end of the month, but the rise remained concentrated: technology and AI held the market, while the energy sector lost its war premium. Although the VIX (volatility index) decreased, the sustainability of the bull market is questioned by the fact that the rally took place in a narrow range of stocks, while "breadth indicators" that compare the number of rising and falling stocks deteriorated. The Fed, which plays the role of the central bank, refrained from changing interest rates in April, but the market gradually revised its easing expectations during the month, as the oil price shock projects permanently higher inflation. Eurozone inflation rose to 2.5% in March, driven by the energy price shock. The European Central Bank kept its key interest rate unchanged in April, contrary to expectations, as policymakers are waiting for the war effects to fade before easing. EU core inflation stood at 2.4% at the end of March, but the gradual impact of the energy shock is expected to be reflected in Q2 data.

In April, investors in international capital markets focused primarily on the U.S. Federal Reserve's interest rate decision, the earnings season—particularly in the technology sector—and geopolitical developments. In the Central European region, the Hungarian market outperformed, supported by favorable investor expectations regarding the new government, which also supports the introduction of the euro, while the Polish, Romanian, and Czech markets all underperformed. The WIG20 index posted a return of more than 4.5% in zloty terms, but due to the significant strengthening of the forint, this translated to a return of just 0.1% in forint terms. The index's performance was primarily driven by gains in Pepco, CD Projekt, and KGHM, a copper and silver mining company, while Modivo, Tauron, and Dino Polska posted the largest declines.
