

VIG OPPORTUNITY DEVELOPED MARKET EQUITY FUND

HUF-IP series HUF MONTHLY report - 2026 JUNE (made on: 06/30/2026)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to profit from the returns on global equity market investments through stock prices and dividend income. According to the intentions of the Fund Manager, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of shares of foreign companies issued through public offerings, but the Fund may also invest in shares issued by Hungarian companies. The proportion of shares that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. The Fund Manager has the option, at its own discretion, of hedging all or part of its foreign exchange risks using forward currency positions subject to observing the applicable legal requirements.

MARKET SUMMARY

The main surprise of the month came from U.S. monetary policy: although the meeting—chaired for the first time by Kevin Warsh—left interest rates unchanged, it issued a hawkish forecast. A majority of the members had already recommended an interest rate hike for this year, but the forward-looking outlook fell short of expectations. The market is now pricing in a rate hike in September with near certainty; as a result, the yield curve has flattened, and the dollar has strengthened significantly. This interest rate environment could place a significant burden on the stock market. At the same time, inflation is showing signs of easing due to sharply falling oil and gasoline prices, while growth and the labor market remain resilient. Micron's outstanding earnings report (84.9% gross margin, persistent memory shortage) and the strong AI investment cycle have been supportive factors. At the same time, risks include stretched market positioning, financing constraints, and a record number of IPOs, such as SpaceX and, later, potentially OpenAI and Anthropic. European inflation rose in May due to energy prices, but manufacturing data improved; the current drop in oil prices is improving the growth outlook. The ECB raised its key interest rate, and the market expects further tightening in September, although the collapse in oil prices calls this into question. At the sector level, banks stood out, but the industrial and defense sectors were also strong, while the automotive sector posted mixed results. Political risks include the UK government crisis and escalating US-EU trade disputes.

The Fund posted a positive return in June and outperformed the benchmark index. U.S. markets were volatile in June, with stock markets still reacting to news of the war in Iran. Although the swings became smaller, President Trump's erratic statements still had an impact on investors. The rotation continued unabated: shares of large-cap companies that had performed well recently underperformed, while small- and mid-cap companies performed well. During the month, we bought Novo Nordisk shares and a gold ETF when both reached key technical levels, but we sold both after they rose sharply. At the end of the month, the Fund was slightly overweight relative to the benchmark index.
