MARKET SUMMARY

The ceasefire signed between Iran and the United States in June proved to be short-lived, as tensions in the Middle East escalated once again in mid-July. Following the relative calm seen after the June agreement, missile, drone, and maritime attacks resumed on a regular basis. The Strait of Hormuz remained the focal point of the conflict. Global oil prices rose significantly again during the month, although they remained well below the previous peak. Diplomatic efforts took a back seat, although mediation attempts periodically emerged, eventually contributing to some normalization in oil prices. As a result, Polish government bond yields rose significantly across the curve during the month, with the three-year maturity increasing by 40 basis points, the five-year by 53 basis points, and the ten-year by 50 basis points. At its early July monetary policy meeting, the National Bank of Poland left the policy rate unchanged at 3.75%. The central bank's communication remained broadly neutral. However, Governor Glapiński did not rule out the possibility of a rate cut after the summer months, while other members of the Monetary Policy Council continued to advocate a more cautious approach. According to the preliminary estimate, annual inflation accelerated to 3.0% in July from 2.5% in the previous month. The increase was primarily driven by the restoration of the VAT rate on motor fuels from 8% to 23%. Industrial production expanded by 7.6% year-on-year in June 2026. Retail sales also strengthened, rising by 6.2% compared with the same period a year earlier.
