

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

MARKET SUMMARY

August was dominated by uncertainty surrounding the leadership of the Fed—which serves as the U.S. central bank—and a surge in long-term yields. Federal Reserve Chairman Kevin Warsh’s more reserved communication style triggered a crisis of confidence in the bond market, causing the 30-year U.S. Treasury yield to rise to a decade-high of over 5.3%. At the same time, the probability of a September rate hike fell from 65% to 40% over the course of the month due to weakening labor market data; then, following the Jackson Hole symposium, a rate hike once again became more likely.

In contrast, overseas stock markets remained on an upward trajectory, driven by exceptional corporate profits and the continuing wave of AI investment. A significant sector rotation took place among chip manufacturers, AI infrastructure investors, and hardware and software manufacturers. Risks include extreme levels of market positioning and leverage, the sustainability of debt-financed AI investments, as well as the Iran-U.S. conflict and domestic political tensions ahead of the November midterm elections.

In Europe, the corporate earnings season proved to be particularly strong: both banks and industrial players linked to AI infrastructure outperformed expectations, and the indices rose to new highs. Growth forecasts for the eurozone were revised upward, and inflation stabilized near the target. At the same time, long-term European yields rose to historic highs due to the ripple effects of global fiscal concerns, while high gas prices pose a risk to growth. The Fund posted a positive return in August. The price of gold had been hovering around $4,000 since June but had not fallen significantly below that level. In early August, investors suddenly began buying, and by mid-month, the price had risen by more than 20%. Central bank data was also released, indicating that several banks had purchased significant amounts around the $4,000 level. The Fund was fully invested again at the end of the month, but if another wave of selling comes, it will once again be overweight. We continue to believe that the fundamental factors that drove the price of gold to $5,600 at the beginning of the year may still be valid.
