In accordance with the risk features of the equity investments, the fund is considered as a high-risk investment. According to the intentions of the Fund Manager, the portfolio of the Fund is predominantly formed by equities publicly issued by foreign companies. Primary targets of investment are the equities of companies listed on the stock that operate in Russia or countries of the former Community of Independent States or make most of their revenues in those countries. When establishing the portfolio, the equities determine the nature of the fund, so the ratio of equities in the fund may reach the legal maximum at the time. The Fund Manager is entitled to cover part of all the currency risks with forward currency positions, while complying with the effective legal provisions.

MARKET SUMMARY

The conversion of depositary receipts traded on foreign markets (GDR/ADR) into local market shares continued. The good news is that the Moscow Exchange's National Settlement Depo (NSD) has extended the fee waiver for conversions until the end of the year, thus extending the deadline for conversions. The Asset Management has also proceeded with the conversion of the depositary receipts in the Fund, so that after Sberbank, the conversion to local market paper has been completed for Magnit, MTS and Phosagro. A total of 4 non-Russian market stocks remain among the Fund's investments: Magnit, Phosagro, X5 and Yandex. The latter is not a depositary receipt but a Nasdaq-listed stock.

There was also an important event concerning the opening of the market. In line with indications, for friendly non-resident investors, the market opened on 12 September. As previously reported, access to the converted and Russian local market shares will theoretically be available after the opening of the market for foreign investors, on which the Moscow Stock Exchange has published a detailed presentation. Only foreign investors will be able to trade on this platform, and the proceeds from the sale will be placed in a so-called "S-account". Due to current capital restrictions, there is still no information on whether withdrawals from the so-called S-account will be possible in the future. Although the first days of trading have shown a positive picture, but due to the limited access, this does not give any indication of the market value of Russian equities. According to the presidential decree, only investors from "friendly" countries and majority-owned foreign companies are allowed to trade in these securities, while investors from "non-friendly" countries, including those from Hungary, are expected to be banned both this year and the next. According to a statement by the Moscow Exchange (MOEX), trading for "non-friendly" countries may start after the finalization of strategic companies.

Sanctions remain in force and the net asset value of the Fund's series cannot be determined. The Asset Management's access to the Russian equity markets is still not guaranteed and therefore no sales or redemptions of units can be made. Therefore, the conditions for resuming continuous trading are still not met.
