

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The objective of the investment fund is to make the Polish bond market accessible to the investors, and to function as a relatively stable, medium-risk investment form bringing steady real yields to our Clients on middle term already, without having to tie down their money for a fixed period of time. The Fund mainly invests in Polish government securities issued in zloty, however, the portfolio manager has some room to complement the portfolio with other bond-type investments. Our goal is to achieve the highest yield while taking the lowest risk. To make investment decisions we use the tools of both fundamental and technical analysis, and we take into consideration the investor sentiment on the markets at all times. The portfolio manager seeks out potential investment opportunities based on the macro-economical expectations, the expected yield curve, the return expected on the curve and the market volatility, and selects investments that are considered to be safe and bring relatively high yields in exchange for the risks taken. The Fund strives for complete exchange risk coverage of foreign currency exposure for the target currency.

MARKET SUMMARY

The Polish bond market had a strong performance in March. The yield curve moved lower, with yields falling by 36 basis points at three-year maturity, 55 basis points at five-year maturity and 52 basis points at ten-year maturity. According to preliminary data, inflation in March may have fallen to 16.2% from the 18.4% in February, but still beat market expectations. Food prices and household energy prices remained elevated, while fuel prices rose only slightly. The inflation forecast has been revised downwards for the first time since 2020, with the central bank now expecting inflation to end this year at 11.9%, down from 13.1% previously. However, despite the more upbeat inflation picture, the central bank left the base rate unchanged at its March rate decision meeting, marking the sixth month of 6.75% and the possibility of rate cuts was not raised at the meeting. According to a Bloomberg poll in March, the Polish economy will grow by 0.7% in 2023, the first quarter GDP forecast was left unchanged, but the second quarter GDP expectation was lowered to 0.4% from 0.5%. The purchasing managers' index fell, with the manufacturing index dropping to 48.3 from 48.5 the previous month. The index is thus still below the 50 mark, as output and new orders are still falling due to the uncertain economic environment and high inflation. Industrial production fell 1.2% in February, well below market expectations of +1%. As for public finances, the state generated a deficit of PLN 11 279.7 million in February, bringing the 12-month rolling budget deficit to 0.77% of GDP. During the month financial stress in the USA played the most important part, after which market participants priced in possible rate cuts during the course of the year instead of significant more tightening before the banking stress. With regards to the changes in the global environment – also before the financial stress – we turned more constructive regarding Polish government bonds.
