

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

MARKET SUMMARY

In the US, at a press conference after the US Federal Reserve's September meeting, the Fed chairman said that he believes US interest rates will remain higher for longer than market participants had previously thought, which could mean that despite the fall in inflation, based on the macroeconomic numbers, the Fed is not willing to cut rates quickly. Also, Fed Chairman Jerome Powell does not seem to want to declare victory over inflation too soon, after his ill-fated "inflation is only temporary" statement two years ago, which means that he is leaning towards tightening, especially while economic indicators are still strong. Powell has also talked about soft-landing, but contrary to market expectations, this is not the Fed's baseline scenario. Real wages in the US are rising again, which is boosting economic activity, and the combined effect of these could lift the inflation trajectory in the coming months.

In Hungary, the MNB has continued to cut interest rates and after a long period, the base rate and the policy rate are the same. The base rate is now only 13%, which raises the question of how the forint will react to this. Although 13% is the highest in the region, the political risk premium makes it uncertain that the forint can remain stable. The MNB expects domestic inflation and core inflation to continue to fall at a rapid pace in the coming months. As the pace of disinflation continues to accelerate, inflation is expected to ease into the single-digit range in the autumn.

In September, the Premium funds performed positively. During the month, we rebuilt the funds' slight underweight commodity market exposure to levels in line with benchmark indices. This is because we are currently in a wait-and-see position in anticipation of a commodity market reversal. Oil has risen over the past month and if other commodities (e.g. gold, wheat) follow suit, we expect to increase our commodity exposure. We maintained our equity positions during the month, which meant that we kept developed market company stocks near their long-term target levels, while we remained underweight emerging market stocks.
