MARKET SUMMARY

In October, Polish bonds showed mixed performance: the short and mid part of the yield curve moved higher, yields on the one-year maturity increased by 26 basis points, on the three and five-year maturity by 6 basis points. However, in the 10-year segment, there was a 25 basis point yield decrease in October. At the beginning of the month, the Polish central bank cut the base rate by 25 basis points bringing the key rate to 5,75%. The most important event of the month was the Polish parliamentary elections, where the previously ruling party (PiS) won the most seats in the Lower House, but opposition will be able to form the new government with very high probability. Based on this result Poland will work much closely with EU and sooner or later EU funds will be unlocked for Poland, however fiscal policy will remain very loose. Thus, the number of questionmarks regarding the future of the Polish monetary policy has grown further, most probably we will get a further rate cut by 25bps on the next meeting, after which many expect a pause due to fiscal and inflationary risks, however US central bank and also the reaction function of regional central banks will play an important role, as a result uncertainty is higher than ever. Moving on with the economic data, preliminary data indicated that in October, year on year inflation in Poland decreased from 8,2% to 6,5%. Therefore inflation is currently at levels not seen since September 2021 primarily due to lower fuel and food prices. According to Bloomberg's October survey, the Polish economy is expected to grow by 0.4% this year and by 2.6% next year. The Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) rose to 44,5 in October from the previous month's 43,9, matching the market expectation. The index is still below the 50 threshold, indicating a contraction, as both output and new orders continued to decline due to the uncertain economic environment. In September, industrial production recorded a 3,1% decrease, which was above the market expectation of -3,6%. Regarding the state budget, the government generated a deficit of 18 083.8 million PLN in the ninth month, bringing the rolling 12-month budget deficit to 2,25% of GDP.
