The core of the Fund's investments is Central Eastern Europe (Hungary, Croatia, Poland, Romania, Slovakia, Ukraine), South East Europe (Serbia, Turkey), the Baltics (Latvia, Lithuania) and the Commonwealth of Independent States (Azerbaijan, Belarus, Kazakhstan, Russia, Georgia, Armenia) and bonds of majority state-owned companies, in addition to which the Fund holds short-term and long-term Hungarian government securities for diversification and liquidity management purposes. The Fund may only conclude derivative transactions for hedging purposes, or in the interest of establishing an efficient portfolio. The Fund may also hold non-leveraged bond-type collective investment forms. The Fund may also take on significant foreign currency exposure, which is normally covered 100% by the Fund Manager in the target currency (USD), but depending on market conditions, the Fund may also hold open foreign currency positions.

MARKET SUMMARY

Last month, in the US, November JOLTS job openings was reported weaker of the market consensus, while the ISM services index moved to a slight increase in activity in November. In Germany, both factory orders and industrial production contracted more than forecasted in October and Italy's services PMI for November pointed to further weakness. The last month of 2023 was mostly about important central bank meetings. The message from the Fed's dot plot and Mr. Powell was unequivocal dovish, while the ECB and the Bank of England did not support the aggressive rate cut expectations priced in by markets. The Eurozone composite PMI disappointed, moving back further into contractionary territory. The bull run in the government bond market continued, while the stock-market rally started to fade, limiting this month's gains, despite stayed at elevated levels. In FX, the USD weakened further across the board, with EUR-USD reaching the 1.10 area. We slightly increased exposure to Romania while didn't make meaningful changes to other fund's positions throughout last month.
